Chickens, Eggs And Freedom

Which came first, the latest steel price Increases or the United Steelworkers' decision to seek a juicier contract?

Alongside this one, the question about the chicken or the egg is rudimentary.

The steel industry's "selective" price increases undoubtedly are prompted by realization that the new contract with the union will call for higher costs of production to pay for additional benefits forthcoming in 1965 negotiations.

The union's strategy of asking for only a little less than the moon undoubtedly is connected with its negotiators" realization that this is the only way it can get its idea of a fair share of the benefits of booming production and rising productivity.

Whichever came first, the result will be the same.

Steel's "selective" price increases will raise costs for steel users.

The steel union's "selective" demands will raise costs of steel producers. These costs will have to be covered. Other "selective" increases will be made. Higher costs cannot be absorbed without direct impact on the price structure.

Costs and prices cannot remain in an absolute state of stabilization indefinitely. That is economically impossible. These factors never stay static for longer than it takes to get another readjustment under way. When prices are going up, boosts are "selective." The euphemism is no comfort to those who are "selected."

When prices are going down, concessions are "selective," which is no comfort to those who are not "selected."

And when prices temporarily are stagnant, everything conceivable is done to jar them off dead center.

What's really important is not the precedence of the chicken or the egg but the fact the mystery is always under searching inquiry in a free market.

Away They Go?

Operators of slot machines, pinball games and other gambling equipment have been warned that they have until Thursday midnight to get the devices out of Ohio County, West Virginia, which includes the Wheeling area.

The warning was issued by Arch W. Riley, the county's new prosecutor who will take office Friday morning. Mr. Riley's action is commendable, and will be even more so if he makes it stick.

We hope, however, that the Wheeling area gamblers don't silently fold their roulette wheels and head for Hancock County. Hancock has enough illegal devices of its own, and certainly has no need for "imports."

It would be good news if a warning went out in Hancock County similar to that which has been issued in Ohio County. The entire Northern Panhandle would be the better if a general cleanup were instituted.

In Need Of Classification

If politicians could look ahead, say 10 years, they might change their strategy about many things.

One change might be their strategy on reapportionment. Politicians fighting it are sure in their minds that their hope for future success lies with so-called "rural voters" - that urban voters have all the legislative power they can be trusted with. But in the process of reapportionment, politicians are learning things about their constituencies some didn't know before.

One thing they are learning, according to an information roundup in The New York Times from all 50 states, is that the chief beneficiaries of legislative reapportionment are not central cities but fastgrowing suburbs.

Suburbs tend to be more Republican than Democratic in partisan complexion. Their voters tend to be more moderate than liberal.

Their residents think for themselves. They are keenly conscious of their growing importance in the political composition of the nation. And they are acutely aware of their stake in legislative reapporder-represented.

Many of them live in areas recently classified "rural" but now clearly suburban in their composition. They want full representation.

Politicians who haven't yet realized that legislative areas no longer are either urban or rural but also now can be suburban will have a surprise in store if they offend suburbanites in a bid for rural

The suburbanites may be living in the country, but they do not identify themselves with a "corn stalk bloc" in politics.

'We Don't Know Why'

"We don't know why we did it." That, in substance, was the rather amazing statement of four Lisbon high school youths haled before Juvenile Judge Louis Tobin for the stoning of two homes.

This is what the thoughtless action cost them: Surrendering of drivers' licenses for three weeks; a 9 p.m. curfew for four weeks; payment of $10 each to cover damages to the homes; apologies to the householders, and court instructions not to associate with each other for the next six months.

How much more sensible it would have been if the youths had directed their enable to boast of accomplishment rather than destruction.

It would be a pity if they, or any others, found it desirable to go through life not knowing why they did it.

More Wheat For Nasser

Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser had some choice words for the United States the other day.

He was smarting under U.S. accusations that he is aiding Congolese rebels and intimations that future aid deals would be curtailed because of this.

He told America, in effect, to "go to hell," that he was aiding the rebels, would continue to do so and did not need American money.

The normal reaction of any nation to such an outburst would be to let Mr. Nasser choke on his own words.

But not the United States government! With compassion that must have been motivated by the festive holiday season, we have decided to go through with plans to provide Nasser with $16,994,000 worth of surplus wheat.

The Agriculture Department issued an authorization Monday for the purchase of that amount of wheat under the Foodfor-Peace program.

It is a little difficult to see how this wheat or any other food sent to Egypt will kindle any peaceful manifestations in the attitude of the Egyptian dictator.

If Nasser believes Egypt can stand erect without the props of American aid. we ought to be considerate enough to let him demonstrate it.

If he fails, we ought to be considerate enough to ourselves to ignore his appeals

Labor Trains Its Guns On Wirtz

By Victor Riesel Dungan (at that time one of the Late in the afternoon of Tuesday, Dec. 22, big blondish Paul Hall, viking-like leader of the Seafarers' Union, pushed a button in his New York

Victor Riesel clared war and was moving in behind its first wave of hundreds of telegrams unleashed by the Seafarers' councils in more than 40 coastal, river and lake ports.

At the same time, phalanxes congressmen were being mobilized. Scores of other union chiefs interrupted their Christmas parties to join the flood. The word had gone out from labor's national headquarters at Washington that the battle was Labor was not actually warring on President Johnston. But to report that the union leaders were not considering him a cobelligerent with Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz, whom they now call public enemy No. 1.

Inside labor's sanctums the word is that Wirtz now must be driven from the cabinet. There's more to the war than Wirtz' efforts to fire labor's own man in the government, the undersecretary of labor, John Henning.

INSIDE those sanctums Wirtz has become the symbol of "Stubborn" resistance to many of labor's basic demands for swift action during the next

There also have been many unreported bitter feuds.

Recently, for example, the assistant secretary of labor, Pat Moynihan, one of labor's closest friends, told intimates of an encounter he had had with Wirtz. The labor secretary had called him in, Moynihan related, and had said, "you betrayed my trust by giving too much authority to Sargent Shriver" in the anti-poverty drive. Moynihan had represented the Labor Department on the intragovernment committee created to set up jurisdictions in the handling of money and projects. Shortly thereafter Wirtz went to the White House and told Ralph

Then in the White House on Dec. 16, without any warning, Wirtz turned to the President in Meany's presence and told Mr. Johnson that he was seeking a Henning Meany was in a dour mood that day. He had been invited over to the White House without knowing why.

WHEN HE ARRIVED he learned that a new secretary of commerce was about to be named in a few minutes. It has been the White House practice discuss such appointments with labor. time there was no such consultation and Meany could not have objected to the new Cabinet member even if labor

On Tuesday, Dec. 22, Wirtz visited Meany at labor's headquarters for an hour-long showdown. Wirtz wanted Henning to get out of the Labor Department. Meany said Henning would stay.

Henning, a presidential appointee, is not the quitting type. So no one budged.

This was not the first confrontation though it was the roughest. In November Wirtz had come over to the AFL-CIO's building to speak before its high council. In effect, he said go slow on some of your demands such as the repeal of "14 B," the Taft-Hartley statute which permits the states to ban union

THE LABOR LEADERS told him off, loud and hard. They had done this once before. earlier in the year when the discussion pivoted on their demand for a shorter work week of 35 hours.

So, after Wirtz left the national labor building on Dec. 22 word was flashed to scores of international presidents such as sure was to be put directly on the President. Telegrams were to flood the White House. Scores of congressmen who had been elected with labor's help were to be contacted and asked to pressure the President.

Ostensibly the demand was for the retention of Henning. But in the background was the building of a campaign to drive Wirtz from the Cabinet - and to tell the President labor deserved far better treatment and delivery after what it had done in the presidential election campaign.

fulfilled. THE BASIC PROBLEM is how the United States can thwart Communist operations in the smaller countries of the world. Obviously, a good deal of money is necessary. But the main objective-to fight Communism and to enable the governments on all continents to withstand Communist pressures those governments alone. Unfortunately, the United Nations is not doing anything to combat Communist activities which threaten the independence and territorial integrity of many nations in the world today. Adlai Stevenson, American ambassador to the U.N., said the other day on the NBC television program, Meet the Press:

-can hardly be achieved by

"We have seen emerge throughout the world this much more subtle, indirect method of intervention in the affairs of another country by subversion, by penetration of one kind or another, mostly calculated to overthrow, sometimes by the use of force, the other government."

This emphasizes the failure of the United Nations even to recognize this new kind of aggression, though its charter specifically sets forth as one of the purposes of the organization the taking of collective action for 'suppression of acts of aggres-

If the U.N. ignores its obligation, any group of governments which wish to participate in collective action may take any financial, economic, or military steps deemed necessary to help preserve the territorial integrity of nations and the independence of established govern-

WHAT IS NEEDED, of course, is a means of exposing publicly the nature of the subversion in the different countries where the Communists have gotten a foothold. The world has witnessed, for instance, the invasion of Cuba by the Communists. This is defended by the Soviet government as having developed at the request of and in cooperation with the existing government of Fidel Castro. But where the lives and property of foreigners are threatened, international law gives another government the right to intervene and to protect its nationals and possessions

These principles have not been made clear to the world in recent months, nor has the whole foreign aid program been portrayed in its true light-as a means of fighting the cold war in order to enable the smaller governments to retain their independence and to preserve their territorial integrity.

Anyone of the five has the veto power to kill any severe action by the council. But just then, by a freak, the Soviet Union was boycotting the group.

The council promptly voted to fight the invasion with U.N. forces. The Soviet Union returned, too late to undo this, and tried to be a bottleneck. Then the United States thought it time to shift some of this absolute power away from the council. It proposed that the General assembly, made up of all the U.N. members and with no one holding a veto, should be able to take action against an aggres-The vote was 52 to 5. The United Nations was a lot smaller then. The five dissenters were the Soviet Union and the Soviet bloc. Years passed and more trouble came. In 1956 the General Assembly voted to send a U.N. peacekeeping force into the Middle East to prevent trouble between Arabs and Israelis. In 1960 it sent a peace-keeping force into the Congo.

The Soviet Union opposed both moves. France opposed the Congo action. But sustaining a U.N, armed force costs millions.

WASHINGTON The Soviet Union and France fell behind in their share.

That's a rough sketch of the background. The story gets a little technical now because Article 19 of the U.N. Charter says: If a members falls behind for two years in what it owes toward U.N. expenses, it shall have no vote in the assembly.

By the time the General Assembly began its winter session this year on Dec. 1, the Soviet Union was behind $52 million altogether 15 nations were behind - and so was France which paid its share of Middle East costs but not those for the

But France won't become two years behind until Jan. 1 and therefore until now hasn't been in a position to force a test of Article 19: Could it vote after being two years behind in dues? The United States insisted, with approval by Congress, that the Soviet Union should be made to pay its dues or be prevented from voting. The International Court of Justice two years ago upheld Article 19 (but no one in the United Nations has to abide by the court's decision and the Soviet Union ignored it.)

Nothing I have come across has bugged me more than pseudo-scientific investigations of the safety of small cars comby this time that I have driven a compact car for many years. There never has been any question in my mind about what would happen if my little strugglebuggy collided with one of the two-ton behemoths that crowd our highways. I'd be smashed.

It wouldn't be as bad as tangling with one of the 20-ton trucks that make a driver swallow hard when he thinks of the consequences, especially if the thing is loaded with gasoline or acid. Even two-ton behemoths don't stand a chance with commercial juggernauts, least of all the ones with the built-in lethal wallop. But the juggernauts, in turn, can be ground into rubbish by a 2,000-ton railroad train crossing a high-speed highway at right angles. And the train can be demolished if it hits another train. It's all relative.

What happens if something in rapid motion hits something else is certain to as a child in a kiddie car would have with us. We'd be creamed from here to eternity. So, we must be extra-careful.

It is impossible for us to get that surge of arrogant pride that causes drivers of large, powerful vehicles to act as if they thought the whole road belonged to them.

Potters Whip Ursuline To Even Record Review

Coach Frank Chan's Potters will ring in the new year with an even 3-3 record after coasting by winless Youngstown Ursuline Tuesday night at Memorial Auditorium, 83-61.

The victory was the third in a row for the Potters, who have done a complete reversal after suffering three straight setbacks at the start of

Victories won't come much easier for the Potters, who handed a young Ursuline five its fifth straight defeat in as many starts. Chan cleared the bench and 12 different Potters took part in the scoring parade.

Behind Lawrence and Springer came Bob Maltarich with 10 points. The other two starters, Frank Taylor and Joe Massey, each had eight.

Lawrence concentrated most of his scoring on the first half when he dropped in 15 of his total. He scored 10 points to pace the Potters through the first period.

In the second quarter, Springer hit on six consecutive fouls and a field goal, while Lawrence added five more points to boost the Potters to a 13-point halftime margin.

Joe Marion topped Ursuline with 18 points, while Jim Burns added 13, including 11 in the second half after being held to one field goal in the first two periods.

The Potters will not play again until Jan. 8, traveling to Oak Glen.

Midland Walks Off With Holiday Title

Tops McKeesport; Hill Picked MVP

By BOB DUFFY

Review Sports Editor Midland High continued the habit of winning its own tournament by walking off with all the marbles for the fourth consecutive year following a 73-48 romp over McKeesport Tuesday night.

The Leopard Boosters Club holiday affair has turned out to be anything but a "holiday" for the visiting clubs, Hank Kuzma's team having captured every championship since the winter classic was launched in 1961.

For the second straight night another packed house, estimated at 2,400, was on hand for the basketball doubleheader which saw Duquesne hand winless Ford City a 56-42 setback in the consolation game.

St. Joseph's Upsets Wichita, 77-69, In Quaker Finals

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer Wichita basketball coach Gary Thompson didn't fly a kite but the way he figures it he got a bigger shock in Philadelphia than Ben Franklin.

"This is the last time I'll come here," Thompson said Tuesday night after his secondranked Wheatshockers were beaten by 10th-ranked St. Joseph's, Pa., 77-69 in the championship game of the Quaker City Basketball Tournament.

Thompson's complaints were about the fans and, of course, the officiating.

in their calls. I disagree with the tempo. There is more body contact here than in the Midwest.

The Wheatshockers had 23 personal fouls called against them by referees John Stevens and Jim Lennon to 10 for St. Joseph's - and actually lost the game at the foul line. Each team connected for 28 field goals but the Hawks made 20 of 29 foul shots to 13 of 15 for Wich-

The upset was the second in two nights pulled off by the Hawks, extended their unbeaten string to 10 and continued local mastery of the 4-year-old tournament. St. Joseph's also won the tournament in 1962 while Villanova and LaSalle won the

The Quaker City was one of six tournaments which crowned champions Tuesday night while other major holiday classics moved through preliminary action and set the stage for a Wednesday night program spotlighting 10 finals plus the heralded individual duel between Cazzie Russell of top-ranked Michigan and Bill Bradley of Princeton in the semifinals of the Holiday Festival at New

Besides Wichita, only one other ranked team was involved in a title game Tuesday night with seventh-rated Indiana walloping Memphis State 91-68 in the Memphis State Classic.

Miami of Florida won the Hurricane Classic at Miami by downing Maryland 80-73, Davidson annexed the Charlotte Invitational with an 81-63 triumph over Ohio University, Penn State edged Detroit 75-73 in the Motor City Classic wrapup and Baylor defeated Clemson 68-59 for the championship of the Poinsettia Classic at Greenville.

Billy Oakes, held out of practice by St. Joseph's coach Jack Ramsey because he was in a slump, broke a 36-all tie with a one-handed jump in the final two minutes of the first half and the Hawks kept the lead the rest of the way.

Oakes finished with 21 points while teammate Marty Ford topped the scorers with 27. Dave Stallworth, Wichita's All-America, had 24 points.

Indiana rode the amazing shooting of the Van Arsdale brothers - they did not miss any of 16 shots they attempted in the second half - to its victory over Memphis State. Tom Van Arsdale scored 21 points, six more than brother Dick.

Miami came from behind to beat Maryland in the last seven minutes. Rick Barry, who finished with 34 points, put the Hurricanes ahead to stay 61-60 by hitting a basket with 7:06 to go. Wayne Beckner added 20 points for Miami.

Fred Hetzel hit a basket and two foul shots and Dick Snyder sank a basket to pull Davidson out front against Ohio U. after the game had been tied eight times through the first 14 minutes. Hetzel and Snyder each scored 23 points.

Meanwhile, the other 10 tournaments were setting up their pairings for tonight's finals. Here's how they came out:

Los Angeles Classic Fourth-ranked UCLA thumped Minnesota 93-77 and Utah outlasted Iowa 92-88.

WCAC at San Jose, Calif. -Fifth-ranked San Francisco had to battle for a 60-57 triumph over San Jose State after Santa Clara defeated Pacific 75-71.

Big Eight at Kansas City -Walt Wesley's 18 points led Kansas to a 54-52 victory over Kansas State and into the title game against Colorado, which broke a tie on Lynn Baker's basket with 2:47 remaining and edged Missouri 65-61.

All-College at Oklahoma City - DePaul whipped Brigham Young 84-75 before Oklahoma City trounced Xavier of Ohio 90-

-Junior Editors Quiz on-Mirrors

QUESTION: Why do mirrors reflect things?

ANSWER: Everything we look at, except for perfectly black areas, reflects back some of the light which falls on it, and it is these reflections which, focused sharply on the retinas inside our eyes, give us pictures of the world outside. But objects which have a soft, porous surface like cloth absorb much of the light; whereas hard-surfaced objects which we call shiny reflects back a lot of the light to our eyes. If such objects are hard and shiny enough they will reflect a full picture of the scene whose light falls on them, and if we are looking directly into them, this picture will include our own faces. In 1, Jane looks into a white shiny china plate. The light from the window falls on her face and she can see a dim image of herself in the plate. Ancient peoples early discovered the fun of looking at themselves in shiny surfaces; in (2) an Egyptian princess uses a polished bronze hand mirror. But the mirrors our millions of modern princesses use are much better (3). Back of the glass, which acts as a protective layer, is a brilliant shiny coating called silvering, often made of tin and mercury. This gives a surface so highly reflective that we can see almost perfect images of ourselves.

FOR YOU TO DO: Does a mirror reflect you exactly? Raise your right hand before a mirror; your image raises a hand too. But is this what seems to be the image's right hand? If you answered yes to your question, you will have to change it to no, for a mirror shows things reversed. Check Janet brushing her hair.

Sheep Flocks Due Checking For Parasite

LISBON - A state program to eradicate sheep scab will be carried out in all Ohio counties beginning Monday.

All flocks will be inspected for the second consecutive year in the hope the 1965 inspection will complete the pro-

The county technician will be John Raley, Lisbon R. D. 5 sheepman, who has received special training in the job from the State Department of Agri-

All flocks will remain under quarantine until they have been inspected by Raley and declar-ed "clean." "Suspicious" flocks will be rechecked by area state veterinarians.

Flocks in which scabies infection is found will be treated before quarantine is lifted.

Robert B. Lewis, county extension agent for 4-H work, said scabies is not widespread in Ohio but is a constant problem because of its highly infectious nature. He said authorities estimate every infected flock in Ohio costs the state sheep industry about $20,000 a year.

Scabies or scab is caused by a tiny parasite which burrows into the skin. Infected sheep rub themselves and pull at their wool to relieve irritation and ftching. Scabs form in the infected areas and the sheep lose condition rapidly.

During the eradication and quarantine period beginning Monday, sheep may be shipped within the state only when accompanied by a certificate of inspection unless the sheep are consigned directly to a licensed livestock yard or slaughtering establishment. All sheep consigned to a livestock yard will be inspected by a state or federal inspector at the yard.

Sponsors of the eradication program are the sheep industry, the Division of Animal Industry of the Ohio Agricultural Research Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the Ohio Co-operative Extension

Vandal Damages Store's Window In New BB Case

BB gun vandalism continued Tuesday night, despite a stern warning from Police Chief Americo J. Radeschi, and one of the two incidents damaged an 8-x-10-foot plate glass window in the Smith & Phillips Co. store, officers said.

Ralph Finley, an executive of the firm, told police a vandal fired a BB into the big window on the Washington St. side of the store about 6:02 p. m.

Arnold McDowell, 1855 Michigan Ave., told police a window at his home was damaged by a BB between 3:15 and 6:30 p. m.

The two latest incidents brought to 11 the number of windows damaged by BB's since Christmas.

The chief warned yesterday that parents will be held responsible for damage. Guns involved in property damage will be confiscated, he added. The chief also cited a state law that prohibits sale of the guns to persons under 17.

Aviation Figure Dies

LONDON (AP) - Gustavus Green, 99, builder of Britain's first successful airplane engine, died Tuesday. He perfected his first engine of 60 horsepower in 1908. In 1909 it powered the biplane used by T. C. Moore-Brabazon for the first circular onemile flight ever accomplished in
